I agree that I am running at my own risk. I will not blame anyone if I get hurt or if my 'do comes undone halfway through the course. Additionally, I fully understand the risks in running in argyle or polyester. I will not cause harm to any fellow 'do runners. I will not take one of their patent leathers just to see how it would look for them to only run in one shoe. I know that it's okay to side step and foxtrot along the route but I will refrain from running with a chicken leg or shearing scissors. And yes, with the 'in it to win it' attitude, I promise to HAVE FUN!!!

(You must sign this super totally rad line before you can be officially registered as either a runner or a funner)
